

Erie Boys Lead Field in Interscholastic Swimming Meet in Columbia University's Pool

Poly Prep Finishes Second In Annual Aquatic Tourney

William Wright, of Pennsylvania Team, Is Individual Star; Wins 50 and 100 Yard Events, Besides Helping Team to Victory in 220-Yard Relay

The swimmers of Central High School, of Erie, Pa., won the lion's share of the laurels at the annual set of open interscholastic aquatic championships held by Columbia University in the Morningside Natatorium yesterday afternoon.

They took first places in four of the six events on the card and ran up a total of 27 points, as against 18 points earned by the team of Brooklyn Poly Prep, next in line.

William Wright, of the Erie contingent, was the individual star of the meet. He captured the 50 and 100 yard swims by safe margins, besides helping to capture the 200-yard relay race.

Lewis in Second Place

The 50-yard dash required five heats, with only one qualifying. In the final Wright secured the lead from the start and increased it slowly to the end, defeating his nearest opponent, Lewis of Erasmus Hall by four feet in 23.1-5 seconds.

Elimination trials for the 100-yard sprint left in the deciding heat Wright and Smith, of the Erie squad; Foster, of Marquand School, Brooklyn; and Hutton, of Erasmus Hall. Wright, leading home his team-mate by a couple of yards in 60.2-5 seconds.

The 200-yard swim was completed for in two heats, without a final, the individual times of all contestants being taken and places awarded accordingly. As chance would have it, the four starters in the first heat all beat the mark of the winner in the second, so they took the four places counted in the scoring.

Finish in Fast Time

A stirring struggle for first was witnessed between Adam Smith, of Erie, and James Hall, of Brooklyn Poly Prep, the national A. A. U. long-distance champion. They covered the entire course neck to neck, and the Pennsylvaniaist just succeeded in nosing out Hall in the final sprint, securing the decision by a few inches in the fast time of 2 minutes 31.2-5 seconds. Morrison, of Marquand, was third.

The 200-yard relay race, also decided on individual times, went to Wright, Smith, Griswold and Hanley of Erie in 1 minute 45.4-5 seconds, or within one-fifth of a second of the national scholastic record held by a team from Phillips Andover Academy.

Hall, Swane, Rodd and Williams, of Brooklyn Poly Prep, did the distance in 1 minute 51.5-5 seconds, and it gave them second place.

Byrne Wins Fancy Dive

Byrne of the High School of Paterson, N. J., came through as expected in the fancy diving contest, returning the winning total of 78 points, but the other awards were unlooked for.

Smith, of Erasmus Hall, finished second with 74.5 points, and Van der Pol, of Poly Prep, a virtual novice, landed third with 71.2 points.

In the plunge for distance performance were not up to standard. William, of Erasmus Hall, outdistanced a field with an indifferent plunge of 63 feet and Luce, of Poly Prep, was runner up with 61 feet.

American-Bred Dogs Prove Big Winners At Terrier Exhibit

Little One Captures Highest Honors Among Irish Terriers; Fraser Is Judge

American bred dogs practically swept the boards at the Seven Terriers Club's dog show held yesterday. The exhibit attracted a record attendance. Owing to the illness of the advertised judge, Daniel E. Lynn, the important were handled by W. F. Fraser, who came from Toronto for the occasion. The Irish terrier honors went to the bitch Little One, owned by Cornelius Fitzgibbon. A puppy, Aroostook Hutsman, went straight through to winners dogs and furnished one of the sensational wins by defeating Scalyham terriers by two puppies, bearing the bootlegger suffix.

The recent importation, Warland Ditto, belonging to the Anoka Kennel Club, of St. Paul, Minn., was the winning dog, white bitch owned by Dorenda Kathleen McGaura, owned by the Dorenda Kennels. Warland Ditto, a noted aristocrat winner in England, was the first bred.

CAIRN TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Greentree Kennel Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

IRELAND TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Anoka Kennel, Warland Ditto, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

SCOTTISH TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Rannock Moor Kennel, Rannock Moor, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

WIRE-HAIRED FOX TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Mrs. M. and Mrs. George O. O'Brien, Champion Kings Point Palace, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

WELSH TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Mrs. M. and Mrs. George O. O'Brien, Champion Kings Point Palace, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

IRISH TERRIERS

Winners, dogs—Rannock Moor Kennel, Rannock Moor, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won. Mrs. Brown Rogers, Greentree, Sutherland, won.

STEVENS POSTPONES GAME

The game with Trinity, scheduled to take place last night at Hoboken, was postponed by Stevens. An account of faculty action "Don't Procrastinate" is given in this column. The latter a guard, will not be able to return to the squad. Swenson, a freshman member of the squad, has also been debared by the faculty.

Some of the Prominent Entries in the Westminster Kennel Club Show at the Garden

Building Up Your Game

by JAMES M. BARNES
OPEN GOLF CHAMPION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Hands, Wrist and Grip

Copyright 1922 New York Tribune Inc.

I have received a number of letters from golfers asking me to go a little further into details in regard to the use of hands and wrists. Many golfers are now either planning to make their own journey or else are preparing to take the trip in order to get a running start for the spring season, which is not very far away.

As the hands and wrists are about the first thing that come into play in the right direction. The hands and wrists are a very big part of any golf game. When they are working as they should, the game certainly becomes much easier to play.

If you don't think so, just note the difference on a cold day, when your hands and wrists are half frozen or numb.

So to get these two important parts of the golf body under control is a big start, one worth working over.

At the Start

I am not advocating here an over-arching grip or a two-handed grip. The most important points to remember here are that the two V's formed by thumbs and forefingers both point to the right shoulder. The left hand is held tighter than the right, but not too tight, and that the club be held in the fingers of both hands and not the palms.

Remembering this, it won't be a bad idea if you have room in which to swing a club at home, to practice the habit of starting the club back with the right hand. When the club is in the right hand, the left hand reaches this position indicated, then the right arm comes in to help and lift a little, and to steady the club at the top of the swing, want to warn the player here of trying to roll the wrists. Let this take care of itself.

Just swing the club back with the straight left arm, right elbow down and to the right.

That's the big thing to work on, to start with.

The hands and wrists should be in the right position when the club is in the shoulder without any club. The right arm, just see that the left wrist is not bent up.

Down Swing

In starting the down swing the wrists should not be used too much. In fact, here they should be used as little as possible.

They should be held under control until about halfway down, or about two feet from the ball.

Here, with the left wrist firm and steady, holding the club under control, the right wrist wins in just as if one were holding a club.

The left hand is also used at this point in the manner of a back-hand shot in tennis.

Give them the chance to get too far in front of the club head.

Let them start down in a natural way, picking up speed as they move along, but not with any fast down-ward jerk.

Speed is needed as the club head hits the ball, not at the beginning of the backswing or the start of the down swing.

You are not likely to be able to carry speed to both sections of the swing, so save it for the punch.

Good Practice

It is good winter practice to take up the club in the left hand and swing it back in the way indicated above for ten or fifteen minutes. This will help to get out of the habit of the right hand lifting later on.

Habit is a big thing in golf. If you get the habit of doing a certain thing in a certain way it soon becomes hard to change.

And this is a fine habit to make a natural part of the swing. Then you won't have to remember it when you get to the tee. It will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.

If you are gripping the club in the right way most of the time, it will be instinctive to swing that way, with the right hand gripping lightly, waiting to take up its share of the work at the proper time.